

FRACTIONAL BUSINESS MANAGEMENT

You've built the business. Now it's time to guide its growth.

A practical way to add experienced management capacity without employing a full-time GM.

From “something needs to change” to focused action

A low-risk pathway that starts with a conversation and only deepens when the evidence says it should.

No generic programme. No predetermined solution. The work is designed around what the business actually needs.

Growth changes the management job

What made the business successful can eventually create a new problem: the owner becomes the point through which too much must pass.

More moving parts

More people, customers, cash-flow decisions, suppliers and commitments to coordinate.

Less thinking space

Urgent operational work crowds out the important work of leading and developing the business.

Owner dependency

Decisions, knowledge and accountability keep returning to one person.

The question is not “Do you need more advice?” It is “What needs to change — and who will help make it happen?”

30-minute Business Exploration

A conversation, not a diagnosis. Enough to establish whether there is a meaningful problem worth investigating.

THE QUESTIONS

Where are you now?

Where do you want the business to be?

What is getting in the way?

What happens if nothing changes?

The outcome

Clarity on whether there is a problem worth solving.

If there is, the next step is not a sales pitch. It is a deeper, evidence-based look at the business.

what is working • where performance is being constrained • where the owner is carrying too much • the few changes with the greatest leverage

OUTPUT: findings + priorities + recommended 90-day focus

A 90-day programme built around the findings

Not an off-the-shelf course. The work programme is designed specifically around the leverage points uncovered in the analysis.
